

Chimney Swift Tower

Project Overview

In 2020, the Georgia Audubon and Town Center Community partnered to install a 12-foot chimney swift tower along the Noonday Creek Trail. Designed to mimic an actual chimney, the tower serves as a roosting and nesting habitat for chimney swifts, a near-threatened migratory bird that spends summer months in our area. Atlanta-based muralist Christina Ward designed and painted the tower to add a public art element to the installation. The site also includes educational signage that highlights the value of the swifts and the construction of such towers to support conservation.

Completed August 2020

Highlights

- 12 feet tall
- Custom-designed and hand-painted by local artist
- Creates a habitat for chimney swift birds
- Tower structure design and construction provided by Georgia Audubon

Artist

Christina Ward

Funding

Town Center Community

Contact

Jenn Hogan, Town Center Community
Director of Community Engagement
jennifer@towncentercid.com
678.350.5061

TOWN
CENTER
COMMUNITY

TownCenterCID.com